

Derek van Amerongen, MD, MS

Derek van Amerongen serves as Vice President and Chief Medical Officer for Humana Health Plans of Ohio in Cincinnati. In this role, he oversees the medical management and strategy for one of the nation's most innovative health plans. Before joining Humana, Dr van Amerongen was National Medical Director for Anthem Blue Cross and Blue Shield, responsible for working with Anthem's national accounts, as well as creating and directing the company's women's health initiative. His experience also includes over six years as Chief of Obstetrics and Gynecology for the Johns Hopkins Medical Services Corporation in Baltimore and as a faculty member in the Department of Gynecology and Obstetrics of the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine.

Dr van Amerongen has written and presented extensively nationally and internationally on consumerism, managed care and health policy topics. His contributions have appeared in such publications as The New England Journal of Medicine, Physician Executive, Health Affairs, The Journal of Reproductive Medicine, Oncology, and others. He has been awarded commendations for his teaching contributions at both the Johns Hopkins Hospital and the University of Cincinnati School of Medicine where he is an associate professor in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology and serves on the Board of Advisors for the School of Nursing. He is involved in many health policy projects in the community including Leadership Cincinnati Health Day and the Cincinnati Steering Committee of the Robert Wood Johnson grant for Aligning Forces for Quality. Dr van Amerongen received his undergraduate degree from Princeton University and his MD from Rush Medical College in Chicago. He performed his residency in Obstetrics and Gynecology at the University of Chicago, and is Board Certified in the specialty. He also earned a Masters in Science in medical administration from the University of Wisconsin.